"Every fruit grower should select his nursery firm with as much care as he would an Insurance Society. Figure it out and the original cost of a tree is comparatively small considering the outlay that is involved in planting and caring for it until it comes to maturity. What folly, then, to take the cheapest things to be had, with little or no knowledge of the parties from whom they are bought! Years of labor, use of land, and skilled attention are often absolutely thrown away, when it develops that the trees in the orchard are not at all what they were supposed to be when planted."

Martin King, Jr., writing in the Rural New Yorker, Nov., 1911

KING BROTHERS NURSERIES

DANSVILLE, N. Y.

A Talk With Our Patrons and Friends

This past year for us has been one of achievement. We have grown and sold a large number of trees and made new friends and satisfied customers in every state of the Union east of the Mississippi, and even beyond to the foot-hills of the Rockies. We feel greatly honored in having so many growers rely on us for first-class nursery products, and we would be dull men, indeed, not to receive pleasure and inspiration from the thought that our trees are helping to make the country beautiful and are a source of pleasure and profit to men and women.

But we also feel the responsibility that rests on us. We have a reputation to sustain, and we must work to produce trees such as will merit for us the continued confidence and patronage of every man with whom we deal. Just thirty-five years ago, Martin King, the founder of King Brothers Nurseries and father of the present management, resigned his position with a Dansville nursery firm long since out of existence and went into the nursery business for himself. He became a wholesale grower and sold his trees to the large retail nursery firms at Rochester, N. Y., and elsewhere. Inspired by his success, other workmen followed his example, and the fact that, today, twenty-five million trees are growing at Dansville, and that agents and dealers and retail men of all descriptions have located here, or are buying a large share of their trees here, is an indication of how broad and deep these thorough workmen of the olden days laid the foundations and trained the men who were to come after them.

For thirty-five years the name KING in the Upper Genesee Valley has stood for straightforwardness and reliability. We of the second generation were brought up in the nursery business. We have received special training in the best institutions of learning in New York State for our life work of growing and selling trees direct to the American planter. Gentlemen, our "Kings Fruit Tree Bulletin" is our own work. It is the expression of ourselves. We have taken you American planters into our confidence and have told you all about the nursery business. We are sure we can furnish you the best trees money will buy, trees that will be a credit both to you and to us. We give you the word of King Brothers that we will continue to give our patrons honest and efficient service. We assure you that we appreciate your patronage and your co-operation in helping us to get new customers in the past. We hope to hear from you all during 1913.
